

STANDOUT

What would happen if a teacher went along with the crowd and let the students' influence him or her as to what would transpire during the school day?

What would happen if parents decided to go along with the crowd and let their children dictate the rules at home?

What would happen if the world, rather than God's Word, influenced Christians?

Through the exercises above, we see the value of standing out and being a leader. We also see the importance of setting our eyes on Jesus, and living according to God's standards, even if it means we will live like foreigners or aliens in this world.
